

Details of the 2011 Art Camp at Lamar are still pending and will be made available as soon as they are available. In the meantime, here is the camp description from summer 2010 to give you an idea of what might be expected...

2010 KIDS ART CAMP AT LAMAR A WORLD OF ART

Take a trip to Africa, Asia, Australia and the Americas during the Kids Art Camp at Lamar in rural St. Croix Falls. Teaching artist Tiffany Paige Meyer will guide children ages 5-14 through a world of multicultural art exploration created just for them and their friends during this summer day camp. The camp takes place at Lamar, a two-room schoolhouse on the National Register of Historic Places, built in 1905.

Each camp session lasts one week, descriptions are below.

At the end of the camp sessions, campers can have their own exotic art show as part of the 7th Annual Lamar Music Festival August 6-8th with fun for the whole family.

Instructor Tiffany Paige Meyer is a professional glass artist who teaches Artsy Smartsy preschool classes as well as Altered Books classes for teens and adults, both free programs at the Osceola Public Library.

In 2008, she led visual arts week at Lamar with a focus on collage, and taught a mini-class in puppet making at the Lamar Music Festival in 2009. She is thrilled to be back!

Lamar Art Camp: Ages 5-7 ~ A Journey into a World of Art

WITC Class #40953

Monday-Friday, July 19-23, 1-4pm. Cost: $46.40 plus a $10 materials fee.

Campers can bring a snack for the afternoons.

Explore a different continent each day of camp.

Begin your journey with a story from Africa, Asia, or the Americas, and then create African Kente cloth designs, Japanese fish printing, papel cortado from Mexico, Aboriginal dot painting, and so much more!

Lamar Art Camp: Ages 8-10 ~ Global Arts with Music

WITC Class #40954

Monday-Friday, July 26-30, 1-4pm. Cost: $46.40 plus a $10 materials fee.

Campers can bring a snack for the afternoons.

Koru art of New Zealand, metal craft of Pakistan, sand painting of the Navajos, papermaking of Egypt, pottery of Mexico – experience these global art forms (and many more) firsthand! Each day will focus on a different area, with regional music playing in the background, and time for sharing at the end of the day.

Join us for this spectacular adventure!

Lamar Art Camp: Ages 11-14 ~ Fascinating Origins

WITC Class #40955

Monday-Friday, August 2-6, 1-4pm. Cost: $46.40 plus a $10 materials fee.

Campers can bring a snack for the afternoons.

Uncover the origins of some fascinating art forms! Each day will focus on a different medium: one day might be Ojibwa x-ray painting and Huichol yarn painting; another might be the book arts of Japan; or Mexican metal tooling or Inuit carving or musical instruments of Africa.

Whatever the focus, it's sure to be an amazing trip!

To register, please contact WITC at 800-243-WITC or 715-468-2815
Or register online at www.witc.edu

Lamar Community Center is located at 1488 200th Street, in the country between St. Croix Falls and Centuria.

For more information about Lamar Community Center, please visit www.lamarcommunity.org